

The Chits Funds Act, 1982

February 20, 2013

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third year of the Republic of India as follows:

1-A „conventional chit’ is an old indigenous financial institution involving regular periodical subscriptions by a group of persons. It is, in law, a contract between the subscribers and the foreman which provides that the subscribers shall subscribe a certain sum by periodical installments for a definite period. Each subscriber shall, in his turn, as determined by lot or by auction or in such other agreed manner be entitled to the prize amount. There will be as many periodical installments as there are members. As there is a mutuality of interest among the small number of subscribers to each chit fund, it constitutes a convenient instrument combining savings and borrowings.

2- In the wider context of examining in depth the activities of the non-banking financial intermediaries (which term also includes institutions conducting chit fund or kuries) , the Banking Commission (1972) had recommended inter alia , that it is essential to have a uniform chit fund legislation applicable to the whole country and as such either an all India Chit Funds Act may be enacted or a model law may be prepared for adoption by all the states. The Commission also observed that it would be desirable to provide in the legislation that only public limited companies can run chit funds.

3- The recommendations of the Banking Commission were examined by Government. The Reserve Bank, at the instance of the Government, drafted a model Bill to regulate the conduct of chit funds for adoption by all the State Governments. The Reserve Bank also sent the draft Bill to the Study Group on non-Banking companies constituted by it in June, 1974 under the Chairmanship of late Shri James S. Raj, the then Chairman of the Unit Trust of India. The Study Group was unanimously of the view that the Bill should be enacted as a Central legislation, as such a step. Besides ensuring uniformity in the provisions applicable to chit fund institutions throughout the country, would also prevent such institutions from taking advantage either of the absence of any law governing chit funds in any State or exploit the benefit of any lacuna or relaxation in any State Government concerned which in turn could seek the advice and assistance of the Reserve Bank on policy matters. Further, there should be according to the Group no objection to chits being conducted by private limited companies also and on a limited scale even by unincorporated bodies, such as, individuals, sole proprietorships and partnership firms.

4- The Bill has been finalized after taking into account the views of all the State Governments to whom a Draft Bill was sent for comments. The scheme of the Bill and the provisions made therein largely follow the pattern of chit fund legislations in force in some of the States and includes certain new provisions, such as, minimum capital requirements for companies conducting chit business, prohibiting chit fund companies from doing any other business, placing a ceiling on the aggregate chit amounts of chits that are being conducted by (2) chit fund institutions, providing for a self-contained machinery for the settlement of disputes between a foreman and the subscribers by means of arbitration, etc. The repeal of the existing State legislations on the subject has also been provided for in the Bill.

5. The “Notes on Clauses” appended to the Bill explain in detail the provisions of the Bill.

Comments

Objects and reasons of the Act.—The objects and reasons of the Act are to be taken into consideration in interpreting the provisions of the statute and not the debates in Parliament on the Bill.

The law is well settled that it is permissible to look into the circumstances which prevailed at the time when the law was passed and which necessitated the passing of that law to determine the purpose or object of the legislation.

Penal Statute-Interpretation of – In order to interpret sections of the Indian Penal Code or any other penal statute the principal applicable is that the Penal Statute must be strictly construed in favour of the subject.

The maxim “contemporanea expositio”- Application of.— The maxim “contemporanea expositio” as laid down by Coke is applied in construing ancient statutes but not to interpreting Acts which are comparatively modern.

Further, it has been observed that in a modern progressive society it would be unreasonable to confine the intention of a Legislature to the meaning attributable to the word used at the time the law was made and, unless a contrary intention appears, an interpretation should be given to the words used to take in new facts and situations, if the words are capable of comprehending them.

Comments

Chit business.- If the transaction in question is a chit within the meaning of Cl.(b) of Sec.2 of the Act, then chit business refers to a transaction within the meaning of the word „chit’ under Cl. (b) of Sec. 2 of the Act and it would be a chit business as defined Cl.(e) of Sec. 2 of the Act and that chit business is sought to be a regulated under Sec. 4 of the Act.

Kuri transaction – If unconscionable.-The suit was based on a kuri transaction (Chit Fund). The respondents were subscribers to the kuri. They committed default after they had prized it and realized the kuri amounts. Hence the suit was filed for realization of the principal sum with interest and balance kuri due. The suit was decreed by subordinate Judge by his judgement, dated 24th June. 1965. An appeal was filed before the High Court. A Division Bench of the High Court heard the appeal and partly allowed it by modifying the decree of the Trial Court refixing the interest, largely influenced by the fact that the kuri and the subscribers (defaulters) burdened the subscribers with unconscionable interest and were unreasonable. The kuri system was in vogue in the erstwhile Travancore State and in the Cochin State, prior to the formation of the Kerala State and they were governed in those two areas by the Travancore Chit Act of 1945 (Act 26 of 1120-M.E.) which came into force , on 20th June,1945 and the Cochin Kuries Act of 1106. There was no corresponding Act for Malabar area from which area the present appeal arises. After the formation of the Kerala State, kuri transactions in the State are governed by the Kerala Chitties Act, 1975, as amended by Act 19 of 1978. The High Court after taking into account the interest stipulated observed that it was unconscionable and a full Bench of the Kerala High Court had occasion to consider the correctness of this view and in a decision reported in 1974 ker. L.T. 806. Such kuri transactions were upheld and the decision of the Division Bench was reserved. According to the Full Bench, there was nothing unconscionable about the contract. Before the full Bench it was contended that this stipulation in the agreement where a subscriber prized his chit, providing that on default the Kuri foreman would be entitled to recover the entire balance amount with 12 percent. Interest in a lump sum without giving credit to the subscribers, is penal in nature and held in terrorem for securing due performance of their promise and hence not enforceable. Eradi, J, as he then was, speaking for the Full Bench held q that a subscriber truly and really becomes a debtor for the Full Bench held that a subscriber truly and really becomes a debtor for the prized amount paid to him that the facility of repayment in installments is only a concessional facility and that stipulation enabling the foreman to withdraw the concessional facility on default of punctual payment of the installments would not be penal or unconscionable.

3. Act to override other laws, memorandum, articles , etc.

Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act,

(a) the provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force or in the memorandum or articles of association or bye-laws or in any agreement or resolution whether the same be registered, executed or passed, as the case may be, before or after the commencement of this Act; and

(b) any provision contained in the memorandum, articles, bye-laws agreement or resolution aforesaid, shall, to the extent to which it is repugnant to the provisions of this Act, become null or be void, as the case may be.

Comments

Validity of fee enhancement.-The enhanced fee, is justified on the legal as well as the factual anvil of quid pro quo. Apart from the appointment of the Registrar, staff and various other functionaries, the scheme of the Act .in its operation, involves huge expenditure which is entirely met out of the fee fund. The fees collected under the Act have, therefore, a live nexus with the expenditure incurred for the benefit of the "chit fund' business.

Right of appeal.- A right of appeal is provided to a high authority like the State Government and, therefore, it cannot be said that right to appeal is illusory attracting the vice protected under Art.14 of the Constitution.

Comment

Chit fund transaction whether a debt:- Considering the intent of the legislation and the wording of Sec. 3 (b) and Secs. 4 and 8 of the Karnataka Debt Relief Act, it was held that the chit fund transaction in which the member- subscriber undertakes to repay the amount taken by him in installments is not a debt advanced within the meaning of Sec. 4 of the Act. These two things together constitute consideration for the purchase. From the chit fund. Subscribed to by subscribers, a subscriber could take the fund amount by mutual understanding of the subscribers on the date of "kuri" or on the auction date. It is a sort of a mutual benefit scheme. The subscriber also is a giver as well as a taker and the foreman acts for and on behalf of all subscribers including the taking subscription. Therefore, the transaction cannot be considered as loan. It does not partake of function of the foreman or stakeholder by whatever name he is called, in the chit fund scheme . is only to organise the chit fund transactions The money taken in the chit held by the subscriber is not the foreman's money. ### Comment

Validity of amendment requiring security to be furnished in cash by foreman,-Section 12 of the Tamil Nadu Chit Funds Act, 1961, as it stood before the amendment by Tamil Nadu Act 14 of 1975, required the foreman of the chit scheme to execute an indenture by mortgaging property in favour and to the satisfaction of the Registrar by way of security for the realization of the chit amount deposited in an approved bank. The said section . After amendment, required the foreman to deposit cash amount as security in such manner as prescribed .The conditions of depositing cash security were made more hazardous in the amended provisions of the section. The amended provision only varied the form of restriction which was already inherent in the original Act. Since the principal Act had the sanction of the President it was not necessary to obtain the sanction of the President for the amending Act.

Sub-section (4) prescribes the mode of depositing all consolidated payment of future subscription realised by a foreman in an approved bank mentioned in the chit agreement before the date of the succeeding installments and this amount shall only be withdrawn for the payment of future subscription. Limitation for suit to recover installments.-On facts, the learned Judge has found that the suit was filed within three years from the date of first default committed by the prized subscriber. In such an event, there is no room for an assumption that the learned Judge has ruled that the suit can be filed within 3 years of the date of termination of the chit. Even assuming that there is a possibility of construing the judgment in that way. That judgment having been decided on facts, cannot be taken as laying down the law to the effect that suit can be filed within three years from the date of termination of the chit.
